PEARL ACADEMY WORKSHOP

On 21st May, 19, the humanities section of classes 11 and 12 had the opportunity to attend a Master Class conducted by PEARL ACADEMY, under the expertise of Heena Parimoo, a fashion professional with over a decade of experience in fashion styling, creative consulting and studio management with her work ranging from fashion e-commerce, magazines, films and tv productions, tvc's, fashion and trend forecasting and designer look books etc within UK and India.

It is well known that Pearl Academy is India's leading institution in design, fashion, and media, it has been a catalyst for the success of the students across creative industries for the last 25 years. They offer 30 uniquely designed undergraduate and professional certificate courses across their campuses in Delhi, Mumbai, Jaipur, and Noida.

The session began with Miss Heena Parimoo highlighting the importance of appropriate dressing. She showcased various slides and questioned the students regarding the appropriateness of the outfits depending upon the given occasion. Different answers were elicited by the students who enthusiastically took part in the interaction. She then touched upon the various aspects of professional attire which is of utmost importance in a working environment as it not only forms our identity and persona but also adherence to the prescribed attire shows that we respect the professional environment of the office. An integral way to not just gain a positive impression but also respect in any workspace involves proper grooming. As rightly stated by miss Parimoo, as we step out of our school life to experience the true world and seek our dream jobs, proper grooming can provide us an edge over the others in the path of achieving our goals and forming positive first impressions.

The final segment of the presentation focused on professional etiquettes and its value in terms of building a strong relationship with our colleagues and presenting ourselves confidently in our workspace. The last 10 minutes of the workshop were allotted for a question-answer session where students asked a variety of questions ranging from courses to undertake to pursue a fashion career to suitability of a particular clothing item for a specific event.

Thus the workshop provided the students with an enriching experience and enlightened them about the importance of appropriate dressing. The entire experience thus proved to be extremely fruitful for the students.
