"Exploring pi is like exploring the universe"- David Chudnovsky
One of the most important numbers in our universe is the number π . π is the 16th letter of the Greek alphabet and is used to represent the most widely used mathematical constant. It's the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter—a number just a little bit bigger than three. The constant helps us understand our universe with greater clarity. Its definition inspired a new notion of the measurement of angles, a new unit of measurement, and gave rise to many important insights into our physical world.

Let's have some FUN with π !
Pi Skylines
Students plotted the decimal expansion of pi on Bar graphs and thereby created beautiful skylines.

Derivation of Pi
Students discovered the relation between the circumference and diameter of a circle and hence derived the approximate value of pi.

Pi into artwork
Students created circular artwork by joining the decimal values of Pi written around the circle. They used threads, digital software, colors, and paper cutouts to create beautiful patterns inside the circle.

Math is Everywhere II: PERCENTAGE
Sports is linked with algebra, geometry, arithmetic, decimal places and relativity. The teams have officials who collect data, take conditions into account and produce performance statistics which can be viewed to plan and optimize future training for the athletes.

Dancers need to form shapes, angles and lines with their arms and legs. For this, they need to understand geometry as the steps should be properly visible.

Math 'o' Art
Art - integrated education was firmly embedded in the classroom transactions not only for creating joyful classrooms, but also for imbuing the Indian ethos through integration of Indian Art and Culture in the teaching and learning process at every level. Art Integrated approach will eventually strengthen the linkages between Education and Culture in the long run.

Class VI
A Collage of famous architectures of Arunachal Pradesh, Meghalaya & Uttar Pradesh with the lines of symmetry of each monument was prepared.

Class VIII
Bamboo-Bridge: North-East India has few of the most unique bridges in India, made of ropes, bamboos and living roots such as Hanging Bridge in Arunachal Pradesh, Bamboo Bridge in Mizoram and Living Root Bridge of Meghalaya. The engineers that design the bridges, use a lot of math in order to find the dimensions and to make them.

Class IX
Mathematics in Textiles: Students explored the shapes and artistic textile patterns of the tribes of Arunachal Pradesh and Meghalaya.

Class X
Khmer Embroidery: An ancient craft of Meghalaya. Students explored the weaving technology and identified the Mathematical concepts involved in the art form.

Class VII
The students explored the beauty of symmetry in Bamboo Architecture of Arunachal Pradesh and Meghalaya. In those pictures, they identified mathematical shapes and lines of symmetry involved in architecture.
