Arshee Chatterjee joined BBPS, NOIDA, when she was 3 years old. A baby, just a little older than a toddler. She got exposed to a whole new world of learning and development through the Pre-school curriculum. It wasn't only about introduction to Hindi-English alphabets or words, and numbers, but it was a fun-filled experience for her. Be it the stories of Bharat and Bharati or the songs like "Bhaloo pahad pe chadh gaya..." that helped Arshee develop a keen interest in her classroom. Let's highlight the fact that all this had started online, and developing children's interest in classroom learning was a stiff challenge for everyone of us. Bal Bharati style was reasonably helpful in that aspect. Bal Sabha activities were something that Arshee had always looked forward to, with keen interest. In Pre-Primary, when the school went to offline mode, having Nitika Ma'am as the class teacher once again was a great advantage. Arshee had already developed a bond, a liking, a comfort zone with her class teacher, that increased by leaps and bounds with every passing day and continued like that till the last day of the academic session. Nitika Ma'am's constant guidance, identification of talents, and encouragement has made the girl confident about almost anything she does today. That's the best thing of the last two years' engagement. Overall, it was a really enriching experience for Arshee and us. At the end of the two years, Arshee has not only learnt and improved her reading, writing, and analytical skills, but has got a friend-philosopher-guide in her class-teacher, Nitika Ma'am for the times to come. My heartfelt gratitude and best wishes to Nitika Ma'am.

With sincere regards and thanks, Souparno Chatterjee
