INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS DAY

The Human Rights Day is annually celebrated worldwide on 10th December each year to commemorate the United Nations General Assembly's adoption of the Charter of Universal Human Rights on 10 December 1948. These rights are held inalienable for every individual irrespective of their race, class, caste, creed, gender and religion. Human rights describe the universality of sanctity of human life and lead it with dignity, respect and without fear.

Bal Bharati Public School Noida believes that this day not only reminds us of the struggles which people have undergone to ensure such rights but also many more struggles which we have to undergo to ensure no person on this planet is deprived of these rights unjustly. May this day be an occasion to honour our rights and realize the duties which will ensure these rights.
